Halliburton is one of the world's largest providers of products and services to the energy industry. The 51,000 sf building includes offices and cubicles for over 100 employees, an expandable training center seating up to 300 persons, locker rooms, and several conference rooms. The facility utilizes state-of-the-art mechanical systems saving significantly more energy than required by California Energy Codes. Daylighting was maximized with transparent walls and clerestory glazing.
