Interactive Energy Code Map Now Available on the Builder Dashboard

At Nucor, we understand the importance of knowing state energy codes before starting a construction project. Our energy team is committed to providing you with up-to-date code information to assist you through this process.

In addition to being available on the NBS Toolbox app, the interactive Energy Code Map for both the US and Canada is now available on the Builder Dashboard website under the Resources section.

The Energy Code Map allows Builders to look up energy code information for a particular state by clicking on the state or using the dropdown menu to view current energy codes for that state. Our dedicated energy team is available to assist you:
