BUILDING END-USE

Brewery & Restaurant

Coulee Brew Co. opened in 2016 as Lethbridge's first craft brewery and restaurant. The project began as a vision of the local owners and entrepreneurs, with a passion for craft beer, to restore the history of beer production to the local community, with the added fun of craft.

The new building was designed using a 17,000 sq ft Nucor custom building situated on a corner lot in Lethbridge, Alberta at one of the most high-profile locations. The owner's goal was to accommodate a restaurant, bar, and full production craft beer brewery all under one roof. The challenge of this project was the uniqueness of each of the three operations with each having their own set of building codes and restrictions. This was accomplished by using a pre-engineered building design, which integrated three individual buildings into one and added significant cost savings to make the project viable.

The exterior of the building utilized a Reverse R-Panel roof system and a Nucor CFR™ Roof System.
