Southeast Missouri Pets was built to house and support homeless pets. This nonprofit organization helps keep over 3,500 animals off the street each year. Some unique features of this facility include an extensive ventilation system to promote disease control and IMP panels to help make cleaning easier. A prismatic skylight system is incorporated in the design because it is highly recommended for animals to have plenty of natural light. The exterior utilizes a combination of wainscot, IMP panels, and wood accents at the canopy entrance.
